Introducing a New Partnership

Like many organizations, during the pandemic, we have had to pivot to accommodate working from home while continuing to provide consultation, education and resources to medical professionals and providers of Hospice Palliative Care throughout Waterloo and Wellington.

Given we are no longer able to provide palliative education in the usual manner, we are announcing a new and exciting partnership to make our courses available in a leading-edge virtual learning environment. This collaboration between the Palliative Pain & Symptom Management Programs of Waterloo Wellington (Hospice Waterloo Region, Waterloo) and Southwest & Erie-St. Clair (St. Joseph's Health Care, London) is called:

Partnering for Palliative Education

The vision for this partnership is to transform the way learners gain knowledge about a palliative approach to care. We will achieve this transformation through migrating the foundational palliative education courses (developed by our programs) to a format that benefits a learner's experience; is easy to use and is accessible for our learners and the provincial palliative educators who will use our site. The site will be powered by D2L's Brightspace Learning Environment.

Learning Opportunities for Waterloo Wellington Health Care Providers

What is the criteria to participate in an HPC Course?

Please visit our website to determine your eligibility for participation.

When will online courses be available?

We are currently in the pilot phase. You will be notified via our email distribution list as soon as courses are scheduled. Not on our list? Sign up now!

Are there other learning opportunities available?

Healthcare providers need quick access to evidence-informed resources and tools, thus, we have created some mini palliative care education videos.

In the future, we hope to move toward a blended virtual and face-to-face education model, when it becomes safe for health care providers, from different organizations, to gather.
